

10th Annual Cal/EPA Environmental Cross Media Enforcement Symposium

May 27-May 30, 2003

About the Symposium

The course objective is to provide a forum where participants can build partnerships and gain knowledge about advanced enforcement techniques. The Symposium focuses both on enforcement subjects involving each program/media (air, water, waste, toxics and pesticides) and possible cross media, cross program impacts (commonly referred to as "cross media"). This interdisciplinary approach recognizes that many environmental issues cannot be fully addressed without the involvement of more than one environmental regulatory entity. Participants will learn from top enforcement professionals and learn proven techniques to improve the effectiveness of inspection, investigation, administrative, civil and criminal enforcement practices.

Participants will learn how to identify different violations encountered in each media, determine what agencies may need notification after violations are identified, whether violations may be administrative, civil or criminal offenses, and what follow-up enforcement actions need to be taken.

Enforcement tactics used throughout California will be addressed through a combination of:

- Video presentations
- Panels
- Group discussions
- Lectures
- Mock legal proceedings

A video that depicts a mock case and documents actual violations is the basis for case development portions of the Symposium. Attendees will be involved in case development and live mock trial proceedings.

Who Should Attend

Cross media coordination between Cal/EPA, Boards, Departments, Offices, local environmental agencies, and the industries we regulate must be a part of the daily routine. Environmental cross media enforcement will be strengthened by this approach. The Symposium is a unique four day event that serves these goals by promoting awareness of the types of activities and conditions that may violate environmental laws, rules, regulations, or permits. The Symposium, through environmental crime awareness and strengthening case development skills, is for:

- Air pollution control districts
- Local enforcement authorities
- Certified Unified Program Agencies
- Regional water quality control boards
- County agricultural commissioners
- Environmental crimes task force members
- Emergency response teams
- Hazardous materials personnel
- District, U.S., and private attorneys
- Industry personnel
- Tribal EPA personnel

This year's Symposium will include the latest environmental scenarios. The latest enforcement methods will also be addressed at the Symposium by top officials from Cal/EPA and Cal/EPA's Air Resources Board, Department of Toxic Substances Control, Integrated Waste Management Board, Water Resources Control Board, and the Department of Pesticide Regulation. In addition, local environmental enforcement staff and district attorney's will offer their perspectives on current issues.
